The One in a Million Challenge

We invite you to share your love of reading and help us log one million books read with children in Georgia. From Georgia Reads Aloud Day 2009, Wednesday, April 22, 2009, through Georgia Reads Aloud Day 2010, Wednesday, April 21, 2010, log the books you read to children and be instantly registered to win books and other great prizes!

Georgia Reads Aloud Day is an annual event that is held during Month of the Young Child and celebrates the impact of reading on children's lives. Early care and learning providers, parents, and the community are encouraged to reinforce the importance of reading by making a special effort to read to children of all ages on this day. Book lists, downloadable bookmarks, certificates, and other resources are available online at www.decal.ga.gov under the "Month of the Young Child" link.

Log the books you read

Log in starting on April 22, 2009, and return daily or weekly for more opportunities to win and more times to share the joy of reading with children. There is no limit to the number of times you can enter and no limit to the number of books you can read.

Visit the Bright from the Start: Georgia Department of Early Care and Learning website at www.decal.ga.gov. Click on the "Georgia Reads Aloud" link and follow the directions provided for entering your information into the counter. You will be asked for the site where you read, number of readers, your name, your organization, and number of books read to children.
